ROCHESTER, N. Y.

PREFACE.

This Library originated in 1826 in what was then known as Chancellor Walworth's Library, the books of which were divided between Rochester and Syracuse under the Laws of 1849, chap. 300, at which time the name was changed to the "Court of Appeals Law Library" and the library placed under the supervision of the Regents of the University. This continued until April 1st, 1900, when an act was passed changing the name to "Appellate Division Law Library, Supreme Court, Fourth Department" (Laws 1900, chap. 258) and placing the same under the supervision of the justices of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the Fourth Department, at which time the present incumbent, Irwin Taylor, was appointed Librarian by the Court. The library has developed rapidly in later years,— As an illustration — the text books in 1895 numbered about 1,000, and at the present time they number about 4,000. The total number of books in the library at the present time is 30,466. This is largely due to the indefatigable efforts of Senator W. W. Armstrong who has kept the interest of the library at heart and secured fair treatment from the state. The library is principally for the benefit of the twenty-two counties comprising the Fourth Appellate Division, and has been greatly appreciated by lawyers visiting from other counties outside of this department, as nearly every day some non-resident attorney is found in the library preparing briefs and looking up authorities. In 1898 the number of books used in the library was 90,258, and the number of visitors 27,857. The use of books has been constantly increasing — reaching 97,000 in 1901, and 100,000 in 1903, which is still about the annual use. The library contains the bound cases and briefs in the Court of Appeals from 1848 to 1906, all of the General Term of the Supreme Court for this Judicial District, and all of the Appellate Division cases in the four Departments. These are all indexed in card cabinets by a novel system of over 100,000 colored cards, the color indicating the court and the location of the book in the library.

Among other novel features adopted in this library is the card rack catalogue for text books having a visible index of all subjects on the top of each card and all of the books on that subject on that card. There is also a cabinet index of current cases, started in 1900, showing the reverse titles and where the case is reported three months in advance of the bound volumes. In the development of this library credit should be given to Mrs. Mamie L. Hartel, Assistant Librarian, for her faithfulness in the performance of her duties for the past ten years, and to Miss Frances J. Attridge, Attendant, for her faithful services for the past six years.

This catalogue also contains an index-digest of all reported decisions of the Fourth Department of the Appellate Division from volumes 1 to 115 Appellate Division Reports.

The Library Hours are from 8 A. M. to 5:30 P. M., Sundays and holidays excepted.
